

Leaving Eighteen And Under a Legacy

You can help us to make a lasting difference to vulnerable young people by leaving us a charity gift in your Will.

Your gift would help us to

-  Provide confidential support to young people who have experienced abuse
-  Continue our multi award winning violence and abuse prevention work via the VIP (Violence Is Preventable) Programme
-  Extend our prevention work to help other vulnerable groups, such as senior citizens and those with disabilities.

Everyone has a right to feel safe in our society. Your generosity would help us to make that a reality for many more people.

What is a charity legacy?

A Charity legacy is a bequest to a charity or charities of your choice which will come from your estate in the event of your death. There are three types of charity legacy you can leave in a Will:

A residuary gift – this is the remainder (or a share of) your estate after expenses and other gifts have been deducted

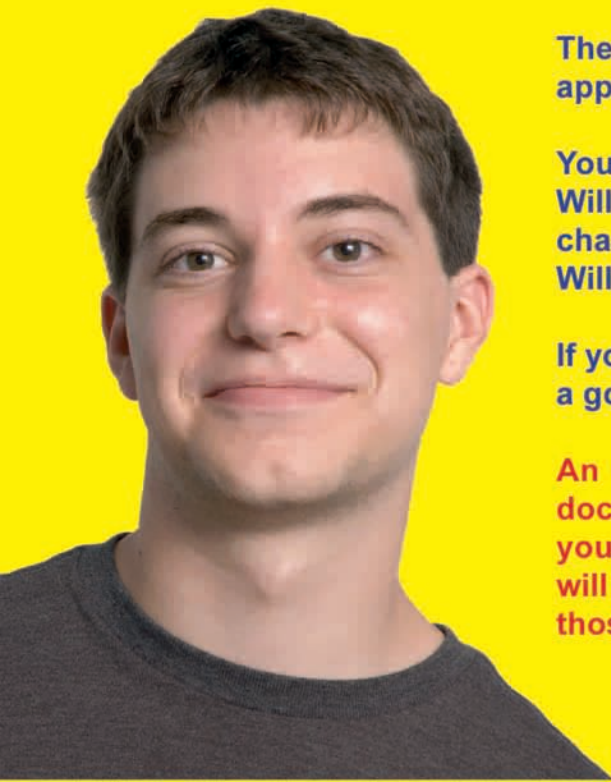

A pecuniary gift – this is a sum of money

A specific gift – this is a specific item, such as a house or painting

How do I make a charity legacy?

The best thing to do is to make an appointment with your solicitor.

You can either update your current Will using a Codicil, or add or change specific wording in your Will detailing your donation.

If you don't already have a Will, it's a good idea to make one.

An up-to-date Will is an important document to have as it will give you control over your affairs and will remove any uncertainty for those left behind.

Please let us know

If you do intend to leave Eighteen And Under a charity gift in your Will, please let us know.

This helps us to plan for the future, so that we can make the most of the generous donations we receive from people like you. It also means that we can thank you properly.

You can let us know by completing the following form, and posting it, in confidence, to
